A VEET ARRY COSTUME.—The latest French-made dresses are dresses no more, they are mere drapings, with fearfully low necks, absence of all sleeves, a mere strap going over the naked shoulder joining the dress at the small of the back and the pit of the stomach. The skirt is strangely and wonderfully bying. It caps the folds, it is caught high in the bip, or in the back, and is shaped tight about the entire figure. From beneath the drapery streams out a two-yard train. Out-door costumes are made, as far as the drapery is concerned, in the same style. These fashions demand revolving pedestals, and what in the same sayle, the mand revolving pedestals, and what dancers term the "slow movements." No dress of this kind could be taken on No dress of tank kind could be taken on its owner's back in a hurry anywhere. Of course, corsets and a good many other articles of underware hitherto deemed indispensable will have to be taken off from the "Empire" waist. At a very swell wedding reception lately, the hightoned belles held their arms as transed fawls to present the cill the hightoned belies held their arms had lace suspenders that did duty as dress waists from falling off their shoulders. The same bridal party were, to the number of a dozen photographed, and if I were to send a copy up to Connecticut I'd not only be prayed for as one lost, but I'd be liable to indictment the sending indexest states. one lost, but I'd be hable to indictment for sending indecent pictures by mail. No gloves! That's dreadful for nice looks. No corsets! That's bad for comfort. And no waists to our dresses! and that's going to be cool for summer, if it possesses no other decided advant-age—N. Y. Cor. Mo. Republican.

Bilking the Pope.—A singular fraud has lately been successfully practised in Rome on Monsignor Hassonn, formerly Rome on Monsignor Hassonn, formerly Patriarch of the Armenians. Said Bey, the son of the late Mehemet Pasha, Minister of Police at Constantinople, after some difficulties in his own country, left for Rome. He introduced himself to the Patriarch as an envoy from the Turkish Government charged with a mission to the Vatican to bring about a settlement of the Armenian Church differences; but he said that the mission was of too confidential a nature to be communicated to the Ottoman Minister at Rome. Said Bey produced credentials written in due form in the Turkish language on paper of the Turkish Foreign grage on paper of the Turkish Foreign Office. Monsignor Hassonn presented the special envoy to Cardinal Antonelli, who presented him to the Pope. Three andiences at the Vatican were granted; Said entered into negotiations with Antonelli and the Patriarch, and a con-cordat was drafted. When the time for singing the concordat had come Said hesitated and said he should be obliged to return to Constantinople to confer with the Minister of Foreign Affairs with reference to some of the clauses of the reference to some of the clauses of the agreement. He borrowed six thousand francs from the Armenian prelate and left Rome, ostensibly for Constantinople. He has not since reappeared in either eity. During the negotiations in Rome he was entertained at the tables of Antonelli and Monsignor Hassonn.—[New York Sun.

A Honry.—Every hard-working man should have a hobby. This is sound dectrine. Especially should the profes-sional man and the active business man remember this. He whose mind is occu-pied during the day with severe labor will find it impossible at evening to will find it impossible at evening to abandon his work. The responsibilities of the day will weigh on him at night; he can not rid himself of them. Social enjoyment, conversation, ordinary amusement, and recreation will serve but a temporary purpose, and can not be relied on to divert the mind from anxbe relied on to divert the mind from auxiety and care. Try the experiment, Take to collecting engravings of coins or shells, or anything else, so it be a subject to interest you, and make a hobby of it. It will absorb the mind, enable it to throw off all business thought, afford sensible relief and refreshment, and be a great insurance against those diseases of the brain which close the labor and usefulness of so ose the labor and usefulness of so many strong intellects.

THREE brothers in Bow, N. H., have THERE Brothers in Bow, N. H., have been preparing another intricate puzzle for genealogists by playing bean to and ultimately marrying three ladies who bear to each other the relations of mother, daughter and grand-mother. Should these alliances have issue, the efforts of the rising generations to discover their respective degrees of consanguinity will be amply sufficient to account for any amount of homicidal count for any amount of homicidal mania. To be the uncle of one's step-brother is perplexing enough, but when it comes to being the greatnephew of one's first cousin and the brother-in-law of one's father and the grandson of one's aunt all at one, the problem is colculated aunt all at once, the problem is calculated to shake confidence in one's own identity.
